TODAY'S MESSAGE

This morning we celebrate salvation using the symbols Jesus gave us: the basin and towel, the juice and bread. Seventh-day Adventist practice Open Communion. All who have asked Jesus to be their Savior from sin and have dedicated their lives to Him may participate.

Dear Man of Sorrows,

How painful that Last Supper must have been for you. How your heart must have ached.

Thank you for offering yourself, O Lamb of God, as a sacrifice for sin. Thank you for sprinkling your blood on the beam of that cross so my iniquities might be passed over...

Lord, when I think of Judas, I can't help but see something of myself in him. Something that keeps my hands clutched tightly on my purse strings, something that keeps me from letting go and following you completely. Thank you that you see the traitor in me, and yet still you love...

I am unworthy of so great a love, dear Jesus. Grant that love so pure would change my life. That it would loosen my grip on material things. That it would free me from serving two masters. That it would help me to serve – and love – only you.

with the Savior
